

CASEORA — Comprehensive API Specification

Version: 1.0.0 (API Design Phase)

Base URL: `https://api.caseora.in/v1` (or local mock: `http://localhost:8000/api/v1`)

Specification Type: RESTful JSON API + Edge Function AI Endpoints

Protocol: HTTPS / TLS 1.3

Content-Type: `application/json`

1. Global Standards & Architectural Guarantees

1.1 Authentication & Multi-Tenancy

- Every protected request must supply a standard Bearer Token: `Authorization: Bearer <JWT_TOKEN>`
- The JWT contains standard claims plus firm context:

```
{
  "sub": "usr_9981a2f4",
  "firm_id": "firm_c841e21b",
  "role": "admin_advocate", // admin_advocate | associate | clerk | client
  "exp": 1790938800
}
```

- Multi-tenancy is enforced on all endpoints via `firm_id` extracted from the verified token.

1.2 Mandatory AI Isolation Rule (Zero Data Leakage)

- Every AI inference and vector query must explicitly require `case_id`.
- The server fetches only that specific case's documents and diary entries.
- Embeddings vector search enforces: `WHERE case_id = :target_case_id`.
- The AI execution context is ephemeral: it is built freshly for each request and completely destroyed after response emission. No multi-tenant shared memory or cross-case caching is permitted.

1.3 Global Header Conventions

Header	Description	Required
<code>Authorization</code>	Bearer <code><token></code>	Yes (except public auth endpoints)
<code>Content-Type</code>	<code>application/json</code> (or <code>multipart/form-data</code> for file uploads)	Yes
<code>X-Firm-ID</code>	ID of the active chamber/firm	Injected via Token

Header	Description	Required
X-Request-ID	Unique UUIDv4 for tracing and audit logging	Optional (Server generates if omitted)
Accept-Language	Preferred language for AI STT/summaries (en, mr, hi)	Optional (Default: en)

1.4 Standard JSON Response Envelope

4. In-Memory Mock Implementation Architecture

To develop against this API without a live database connection, the following in-memory mock service design is implemented on the client/edge:

1. Deterministic Latency: Mock service introduces an artificial 300ms–600ms delay to simulate realistic network conditions.

2. Dynamic In-Memory Mutations: Adding a case or diary entry mutates in-memory Maps during the session, allowing UI workflows to react identically to a live backend.
3. No Direct SQLite / PostgreSQL Connection Required: Fully portable across web, desktop, and mobile runners without runtime driver prerequisites.
